Village Board Votes to Remain in Consolidated Health District

Tie vote recorded first time in four years—Mayor Sisto breaks tie and village will abide by consolidated vote—Was major business transacted Monday.

Members of the Addison village board voted to remain in the Consolidated Health District of the Towns of Addison and Rathbone. The voted was taken at a meeting held Monday night. And the members voted to uphold the duly appointed health officer, Dr. Stuart H. Bean.

The matter was brought to the attention of the Board members by Mayor Angelo Sisto who gave the history of the discussion between the village and town boards and Drs. Stuart Bean and H. E. Auringer. He stated that the Town Board had voted for Dr. Auringer at a January meeting, a right they did not have under the consolidated district. Dr. Auringer was then serving under a temporary appointment. Dr. Conway of the State Health Department stated it was not legal to make an appointment and then withdraw from the Consolidated Health District as the Town of Addison desired to do, and that the Town Board will be liable for the pro-rata salary of the health officer for a four year term, the life of the appointment.

Mayor Sisto then stated he was not interested in who was health officer but in the right and wrong of the issue. He said Dr. Bean had approached him for his vote first and two days later Dr. Auringer had asked for the Mayor's vote. Under the consolidation Mayor Sisto, Supervisor Henry Sherwood of Addison and William Crawford of Rathbone vote on the candidate. Mayor Sisto stated that if Addison Village withdrew it would cost $65 per year for a health officer and now they only pay a pro-rata share of this indirectly. The Mayor put it up to the Board as to whether they wanted to vote for or against remaining in the Consolidated district.

A petition had been sent to the State Health Department containing the names of three of the four members of the village board asking for abolition of the district.

However, on a vote Trustees Hubert Orr and William Cooper voted to abolish the consolidated district and Trustees Albert Root and Norman Phelps, Sr., voted to retain the district. This caused a tie vote and Mayor Sisto broke the tie, the first in four years, by voting to retain the district.

Police Chief Earl Leavenworth appeared before the board and asked what police would have charge of the carnival crowds here next week. The Village Board authorized the Fire Police and three village police to assist Chief Leavenworth.

Bills audited and ordered paid Electric light, $295; Steuben Water Works, hydrant rental, $433.75 and A. L. Blades, for patching material, $64.88.

A letter was received from Attorney Charles H. Githler, Corning, calling attention to needed sewer repairs in front of the residence of Lewis B. Smith, Front street. These repairs have been made and Mr. Githler was so informed.

Mayor Sisto reported construction will start soon on the new Main Street bridge and some lawsuits will evolve from the construction, but the village will not be a party to these suits.

The American Legion was given permission to parade through streets of the village the night of Thursday, July 18.

Farmers Union Severely Indicted At Milk Producers Meeting Here

Speakers point to prison records and Communistic work of Dairy Farmer's Union leaders—Say it is CIO affiliate—Asks local producers to investigate leaders before joining

Lack of program and the wrong kind of leadership will ultimately destroy the Dairy Farmers' Union when these facts are discovered and investigated by milk producers in the opinion of speakers at a milk producers meeting held in the Addison Village Hall last Wednesday night. The principal speakers were A. C. Pilger of Batavia and Charles Dumont of Malone. Both men were formerly high in the councils of the Union in its formative days but resigned, they said when they discovered the Communistic leadership in the Union and the lack of program. Both are large milk producers and cooperative heads in their respective communities.

Judge Smith Presides

Edwin C. Smith, owner of three farms, with a total herd of 100 milk producers, presided as chairman of the meeting. He prefaced the speaking program by stating that 150 years ago farmers predominated in the land, constituting 80 per cent of the population and ran the farms as homes. They worked on the law of supply and demand and were self-sufficient. He continued, "Then 110 years ago we learned of the first corporations doing business. They organized to keep prices up and we had the first millionaire. Then corporations organized and we had the first billionaire and money was made for more individuals.

"In 1860 and thereabouts labor conceived the idea of big business and organized to do away with the laws of supply and demand until the World War when we had business on the one hand and labor on the other hand telling the government what to do and the farmer being squeezed between the two. You all remember how we were ground. So the farmers began to organize and when they do, they can bring both business and labor to their knees for all must eat. We are now in the position of labor in 1890. They had their troubles and we are learning from ours.

"I don't belong to the Dairy Farmer's Union, the Dairymen's League or the Bargain Agency. I'm not clear where I stand. I did belong to the League and then withdrew.

"You men are here to discuss pro and con what is best for milk producers of the district. It is up to us farmers who make a living from milk to do what is right. We are here to learn".

Mr. Pilger

He then presented Mr. Pilger, who prefaced his remarks by saying he regretted there were not more business men present for what helps the farmer helps them. He explained that the Chamber of Commerce of Batavia backed the Nunan-Allen Law.

Mr. Pilger continued, "I will try to explain the conflicting programs being tried in the milk shed and then leave the course of action with you. There are indications that there is a program being advocated here opposed to the Bargaining Agency objectives.

Was With DFU

"I was one of the five men at the head of the organization opposed to these objectives. I worked with it. I was impressed by a man who could enroll 10,000 farmers in an organization. In one year I set up a Mutual Dairy Cooperative with 24,000 members in that organization and they were working under the same conditions as now in the Rogers-Allen Law. Big interests finally found a way to scuttle the organization.

Want Program

"The Dairy Farmers' Union did one thing. It got the farmers to deduct five mills per 100 pounds of milk. Some of us at the top of the organization asked the question of Archie Wright, "What is your program?' The answer was, 'To control milk at its source' which meant strike and withhold milk. A program can be what men want it, but not in the D. F. A.

"They contend that the strike of D. F. U. members in 1937 raised the price of milk 10c above Bargaining Agency. May be so, but what would happen in a flush period? The program would be wrecked.

DFU Not Democratic

"We told Mr. Wright to get a program to stabilize the price. The motion to adopt a program was never put in meetings. The chairman did not approve. That is not democratic and there was no democratic program when one man could control.

Contract Let For Main St. Bridge Here

Bids have been let to E. W. Foley Inc., Brooklyn, for the construction of the new Main street bridge across the Canisteo River in this village. Representatives of the company are already at work here making plans for the temporary structure which will be needed before the old bridge can be demolished. The bid was $74,873.72 for the entire project. This includes the erection of the temporary bridge, demolition of the old bridge and erection of a new bridge with proper approaches for a total distance of one-tenth of a mile.

The project is expected to be well under way by the middle of July. The temporary bridge will divert traffic from Main street south on Wall street to the east of the Pep-O Bakery, across the river to a point east of the Wickering Hardware Company and thence west on Wombough street to Main street. Some traffic will use Colwell street and Valerio Parkway, but heavy traffic will not be permitted to use that thoroughfare.

The construction of the new bridge has been necessary for several months according to highway engineers for the under structure of the present bridge has rotted from years of service. Attempts to repair the bridge have been futile.

The Steuben County supervisors have purchased the rights of way for the bridge and for the temporary bridge so that work can be started immediately.

Other bids received were as follows: Howes & Farrell, Oneida, N. Y., $76,752.96; Hornell Construction Company, $79,202; James H. Wills, Homer, N. Y., $82,352.75; C. E. Knowles Copany, Gowanda, N. Y., $84,881.25. These figures were all below the engineer's estimate for the work which was $86,566.75.

John Wickering Buys Hardware Business Here

John E. Wickering has purchased the interests of Robert H. Stickler in the hardware store on Wombough street in this village. This business for years was operated by Hawkins & Hill. Mr. Wickering will continue to handle International Harvester machines and supplies as well as a general line of hardware, paints and roofing as well as feed and seed.

Mr. Wickering is one of the youngest business men in the community. He is a son of Louis Wickering of Pittsburgh, Pa. He attended Pittman, N. J. High School from which he was graduated in 1935 and he then spent one year at Riverside Military Academy in Riverside, Georgia.

After completion of his work there he became a meat cutter in Pittman, N. J., for three years, leaving that to become a level stretcher operator for the American Rolling Mills in Butler, Pa.

July 2, 1939 he went to work for Robert H. Stickler in Campbell and shortly after came to Addison as assistant manager of the store here and in August was made manager. He purchased the Stickler interests July 1.

School Board Reduction Up Tues. Night

Attention of voters eligible to vote in the school elections is called to the fact that the proposition whether the board should be reduced from nine to six members will be voted at the annual school meeting Tuesday night, July 9 at 7:30 o'clock.

If the proposition is carried to reduce the board the only election at the elections on Wednesday, July 10, will be for library trustee, in place of Mrs. Carrie LaGrange. If the proposition to reduce the board is not carried then nominations will have to be made for successors to Mrs. Susan D. Perry and Belden Ackerson whose terms expire and in place of the late Miss Fannie Curtis, whose term also expires as of this year.

Attention is also called to the publication of the budget in this week's Advertiser-Sentinel. School trustees held a meeting last Saturday night and effected economics amounting to $500 in this year's budget as compared to last year's budget, in spite of increases in teacher salaries. The amount raised by local tax will be $500 less next year.

Howard Gee Held on Arson Charge Tues.

Howard Gee, Jones Hill, was held Tuesday by State Police pending an investigation of a fire which broke out in the Gee residence late Monday night. The suspicious nature of two fires which broke out in the building, caused the investigation and detention of Mr. Gee. If found guilty of starting the fire he will be held for first degree arson.

Late Monday night Lucinda Burdick, housekeeper, ran to a neighbor, D. H. Moore and called the firemen. Among the first arrivals was Chief of the Fire Department John O'Keefe, Attorney Hugh Varn and Vernon Mose. They poured water on a fire in a clothes closet and shortly after fire broke out in another part of the house. Mr. Gee had the insurance policies for the house in his pocket when detained.

Stories told by Lucinda Burdick, housekeeper, and the detained man conflict according to police. Sergt. Charles Burnett was called and took Gee to Erwins where officials of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation of the State Police took charge of the case under Oscar Lazaroff. They secured a confession from Gee late Tuesday afternoon in which he admitted using some liquid to set off the fire.

The damage was estimated at less than $100.

Austinburg—The 100th anniversary of the Baptist Church will be observed July 6.

Sunday Day of Unusual Weather Here

Sunday offered Addison and vicinity about as unusual weather as we have had in several months of freakish weather. Top coats have been in order throughout June. Frost killed sensitive plants towards the close of the month. Rains came and washed out crops, floods filled springs and roads. Rains caused water to go deep into the ground, so that in time all water ran off water soaked ground and caused unusual flood conditions. The sun failed to shine for three weeks throughout an entire day, and part of most every day it rained.

Then came Sunday. Early church goers looked hopefully into a sunny and clear sky and "opined" the weather would be good for the balance of the day. Late church goers were drenched. Then came large hail stones, rain, sunshine, wind, rain, sun, more hail and so on for several stages throughout the day. Then came clear weather and a beautiful rainbow in the east with a reflected one near it.

Mr. Gladstone said the couch was purchased with funds of the department and the board would not have to meet the whole cost of the item.

For the elementary grades a sum of $14,400 is expected to be returned and $20,634 for the high school making $38,034. WILLKIE, THE LEADER

The nomination of Wendell Willkie by a self-determining, unbossed convention in Philadelphia last week did more to restore confidence in the American form of government than any event since Abraham Lincoln was named in 1860 to lead a nation on the verge of civil war. It was, in fact, the quickest response to country-wide popular opinion which we have ever seen, and carrying out the dictate of popular opinion is one of our pillars of Democracy.

Here was Mr. Willkie, a man formerly affiliated with the Democratic Party, paged by a few admirers as a man who should be drafted to the office of President of the United States. Here was Mr. Willkie, a man with no political aspirations, pushed into the national arena by fellow citizens who said that in this hour of uncertainty in America the country needed a man with great powers for leadership.

It was late in the campaign, candidates had been campaigning directly and indirectly for a year—most delegates to the convention had already been lined up by the various candidates. In the race was one candidate who had caught the public imagination from one end of the country to the other, and another who had proved himself a keen politician by adroitly gathering state delegations under his banner without risking his prestige in trials in primary elections. Also in the campaign were other United States senators, governors and several men who had secured build-up publicity from their organizations for many months.

And here was Mr. Willkie, without an organization, with no politicians to give him counsel, with no campaign fund save what he spent himself. Here was Mr. Willkie who stepped out for the nomination less than two months before, capturing the support of delegation after delegation which entered the convention tied by commitments to one or another of the various candidates who frantically but vainly tried to organize a "stop Willkie" movement.

Nothing like it has ever happened in modern convention history. Rumors had preceded the meeting that the nomination would be decided by political bosses in a "smoke-filled" room. But political bosses were without influence in Philadelphia. The delegates who sat as representatives of their districts were doing more than jump to the strings pulled by the bosses. They may have arrived with premises to vote for favorite sons or primary choices in the beginning, but they were ready to vote in the final polls which counted, for a man they believed best fitted to lead the country through difficult days.

Why did the delegates receive Wendell Willkie as their triumphant nominee just 48 days from the time he started out in earnest to try for the honor? They acted because Mr. Willkie had caught not only their imagination, but had been endorsed by thousands and thousands of Americans who were clamoring for the opportunity to vote for him for President.

Yes, there were a few die-hards in the convention. There were a few men and women who tried to assume a semi-religious cloak of party purity — designating their choice of a Willkie opponent as a REAL Republican. But slurs were soft-pedaled when the four-square, fair chairman Joe Martin stated that all the candidates were REAL Republicans. It was this same Joe Martin who prevented the consummation of any plans to "stop Willkie" during the voting by refusing to recess the convention when the popular business man appeared on the point of winning after gaining rapidly on every ballot.

The confidence of the delegates in nominating Willkie for Republican standard bearer was rewarded by a brief, yet strong address to the convention. Mr. Willkie said he would fight to bring unity of labor and capital, agriculture and manufacturer, farmer and worker and all classes to this great cause for the preservation of freedom. And he added that he thought he understood America because he had been a member of each of those classes during his brief life.

So we see that in America when all the world seemed to be crashing into an abyss of dictatorship and one-man power, the real operation of Democratic processes seems to have returned to life. Whether one be Democrat or Republican, rich or poor, worker or businessman, he cannot fail to feel encouraged that a political party has chosen a strong leader in obedience to the will of the people at home. We believe that many Democrats will vote for Willkie in November, not simply because he has been at one time enrolled as a Democrat, but because he has shown himself to be a man and a strong leader capable of coping with the big world problems and desperate domestic problems which confront America.

RADIO AND THE CONVENTION

Of the many things radio is guilty, or responsible for, it is outstanding for frankness of purpose in the case of party conventions.

Mob psychology is afforded greater scope than was ever possible in the old days, and its influence spreads to all parts. No stauncher evidence can be demanded than that ground out in Philadelphia. From the outset, handclaps, cheers and riots were made a part of the ballyho that was to carry Willkie to the top.

True, too, much of the dignity that goes with such an event is lost in the boisterous and sometimes rowdy, deportment of delegates. Just another evidence of the transition through which this generation is passing.

The nomination of Willkie, we believe, affords the Republican party a grand opportunity. Willkie appeals to the rank and file, in that he has proved his ability to manage his own affairs. To many, it is high time that our President should possess achievements, rather than to promote ideals.

Willkie began his campaign with many obstacles to overcome, for the fact is dominant that under any guise utilities are far from popular. But if the man on the street, in the factory, in the store, or in the office, is intent upon practical things, he must feel the urge to support in every way the choice of the Republican convention—as "unbossed" an event as we ever listened to.

THE RIGHTS OF MAN

The Walter-Logan bill, which is now up in Congress, is about as important and necessary a piece of legislation as America's lawmakers have ever conceived.

In the words of Mark Sullivan, the bill "goes to the heart of what is troubling the country and the world—the conflict between the rights of man, and the authority of government". And never in our long history was that conflict so bitter and intense.

The Walter-Logan bill is aimed specifically at the arbitrary exercise of vaguely defined authority by bureaus and commissions. And many an American citizen has discovered what that exercise of power means. We have established, principally in recent years, a great number of new bureaus for various purposes. The laws authorizing these bureaus have often purposely been made general, to the extent that even the proverbial Philadelphia lawyer can't discover where their powers begin and where they end. And the result has been that government officials have at times made themselves into prosecutors, judge and jury, all in one. Rules and regulations may be changed from day to day. Interpretations of the law may be revolutionized overnight. And the ordinary citizen, who cannot afford the time and money that years of litigation in the Federal courts demand, is helpless.

The Walter-Logan bill doesn't propose to limit the authority of government or weaken its functions in any way. It simply provides that when a board or bureau makes a decision which the litigant thinks wrong, he may have an immediate appeal to a judiciary body. To quote Mr. Sullivan again, "That is the same as saying, and no more than saying, that every man shall be entitled to his day in court". And the late Senator Logan, when first introducing his bill, described it in these words: "The sole issue here presented to Congress is whether we shall have a government by men or a government by law."

We all know what government by men means—look abroad at Europe. The purpose of the Walter-Logan bill is to prevent that here. And no bill could have a more vital purpose.

POLITICAL PRODIGALITY MUST STOP

If we Americans have been suffering from any illusions regarding the cost of an adequate national defense structure, they should be shattered by now. The billion dollars or so requested in the President's recent special message to Congress was but a small drop in a very big bucket. Congress has already raised that amount to more than $5,000,000,000 for defense purposes — and that sum, gigantic as it is, marks only the beginning.

Some of the leading columnists have been criticizing high government officials for failing to frankly inform the people as to just what sacrifices are now necessary. And that indictment seems justified from a completely non-partisan point of view. Defense appropriations have been requested on a piece-meal basis. No reliable estimate of the total cost has been issued by any responsible government source. And no definite plan has been presented to the people who must pay the bill.

In the opinion of Senator Byrd of Virginia, who has proven himself a cool head when it comes to fiscal matters, reasonable rearmament for this country will cost, not five or six billion, but as much as $20,000,000,000. The question before us now is not whether we shall rearm to the limit. All are agreed that must be done. The question is how to pay for it in a logical, business-like manner, free from waste and too much politics.

To that question there are three related answers. It will be necessary to raise the debt limit. It will be necessary to greatly increase present taxes, and perhaps to create new taxes. And finally, it will be necessary to cut the cost of government to the bone. Every nickel spent now for an unnecessary or avoidable purpose should be regarded as criminal waste. Excessive relief appropriations, excessive farm aid appropriations, the luxury of political spending of money to put government into competition with private business, must be stopped.

The people are ready to pay the bill. But they will not permit further political prodigality when the nation needs the weapons that can make us secure against invasion.

From time to time the baseball fans of this community are given a break on a real baseball game. I'm sure such a break will be given them Saturday, July 13 if the Addison Merchants, town team accepts the challenge of the Nine-Old-Men, Who Were Not Good Enough. Sounds like an Indian name of Cloud up and rain all over the place. But anyway, that is the name. I understand it is to be a winner take all basis with expenses shared. The challenge is in the office here for the Merchants to accept or take a grand razzing from the grandstands for the balance of the season.

It seems a shame that there is not some celebration in this village for the Fourth, something to keep the local people and their money in town. And also something to keep motorists off the road and happy at home. There is not much pleasure in riding on crowded highways.

There was a milk producers meeting here recently. The attendance was small. Regardless of which side you are on, League, Independent, Dairy Farmers Union or Bargaining Agency, it does seem that there should have been more of all factions there and that all should have taken part in a good discussion. I would like to have seen and heard representatives of all groups argue the merits of their respective systems, to sort of clarify the air for everyone. I'd like to see another such meeting with more there.

There are still several unclaimed hot water bottles and blankets in the MacDowell Store, left there at the time of the rescue of James Coon from the waters of Tuscarora Creek. The owners are aked to call for them.

The little entrance nook to the Public Library is not a secluded place for a young girl to fix her garter, especially when the Village Board is in session across the street.

Dr. L. L. Click, professor of English at the University of Texas, challenges copyreaders and newspapermen in general with a list of words to spell. He declares that anyone missing fewer than eight in taking dictation of the following is an excellent speller:

"An irreligious peddler and an embarrassed cobbler were harassed by bulletins charging that they kidnaped a botle of asafoetida to inoculate some picnicking acquaintances against catarrh.

" 'Your innuendo is sacrilegious', spieled the peddler fingering a woolly queue which he used to camouflage his skull.

" 'I saw the thief, a traveler in the cemetery, reveling in the symmetry of the obelisks.'

"His alibi seemed impregnable enough to supersede legal procedure: so the sheriff recommended that the bailiff release him.

" 'This plaguy desiccated and rarefied air will give him a hemorrhage anyway', he said."

If you miss more than 20 words you need a dictionary, Dr. Click said.

—o—

If you're one of those who takes pride in his spelling ability, here's an item from a recent issue of the Washington Newspaper whicy may interest you:

The most useful of the 26 soldiers of the alphabet is the "E"—useful because it does more work than any other.

The letter "E" is an unfortunate letter, however, since it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger and in hell all the time.

The Bill of Rights

A new way of telling a Communist has been suggested by the "Dairymen's League News" and the "Dairy Farmers Digest" and the speaker of June 26 at Addison. They report that Communists are readily distinguishable by the emphasis "sinister emphasis" says the Digest, which they place upon preserving the Bill of Rights. The fact that it is safe to denounce those who support the Bill of Rights shows what progress has been made in breaking down America's traditional liberties. In the early days of the Republic slurs cast upon this section of the Constitution would have brought vigorous action upon the disparagers.

The Bill of Rights are those first ten amendments to the Constitution.

This calling of names is a lie spread by those who would willingly destroy American freedom. The Bill of Rights did not come into being spontaneously, but only after a hard fought struggle with the reactionaries who were against it then as they are today. The fact that they now seek to challenge the Bill of Rights indicates the seriousness of the battle that is in front of us, a battle which is just as important as the fight for a price for milk. Anyone who stands for traditional Americanism to day risks being branded as a Communist by the Milk Trust. They safeguard such fundamental liberties as freedom of religion, of speech, of the press and of the right peaceably to assemble; they protect against unreasonable searches and seizures, guarantee the right of a speedy, impartial trial and prohibit excessive bail and fines, as well as unusual punishments.

Ever since 1791, these ten amendments have been the bulwark of American Democracy.

They contain the essence of all that has made America great. Now along comes the League and the Digest and others of their ilk who say that anyone who advocates preserving the Bill of Rights is a Communists and its "fifth column" in the country.

In their scheme to enslave the American people, the Milk Trust and other monopolies realize that they must first destroy the Bill of Rights. That is why they have taken to crying "Communist" in an attempt to smear and discredit anyone who exposes their game and calls for the preservation of America's Charter of Freedom. It is on the farms and among farm people that traditional Americanism survives today.

It is mostly there that the Bill of Rights, personal and civil liberties, are known and appreciated. We do not believe that the farmers are going to sell out themselves and their birth right of liberty for any mess of League Pottage.

From a farmer near Addison, N. Y.

But those who traduce the letter "E" should not forget that it is never in war, always in peace, is the beginning of existence and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life, no heaven; no wine or women, both so necessary to make song enjoyable. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect, is the beginning of eternity, the end of time and space, the beginning of every end, and the end of every place. Without it there could be no editors, writers, or even wives or children.—Oregon Publisher.

Science In The News

By ORSON D. MUNN, Litt.B., L.L.B., Sc.D.
Editor, Scientific American

Science has proved that the chief human factor in automobile driving safety is alertness and that the greatest enemy of this is fatigue. Even a moment's loss of alertness while driving may result in disaster.

Scientific investigators have therefore staged tests on the effect of fatigue on driving safety. Recently such substantial institutions as The National Safety Council and the Northwestern University Traffic Institute have made exhaustive studies of the relation of fatigue to night-driving accidents, while other valuable studies have been originated and supervised by Dr. Andrew H. Ryan, a national authority on the causes and consequences of fatigue.

Orson D. Munn

These studies have revealed that about 60% of all fatal accidents occur at night. These figures are all the more impressive when one considers that night traffic equals only about one-fourth of day-time traffic, bringing night accidents to about six times as many in proportion to the volume of traffic. Furthermore, the investigators ascribe the majority of night accidents to fatigue and have developed detailed charts showing the percentage of "driver-asleep" accidents at various hours of night and day.

In line with these scientific findings, one nation-wide automobile service system has just announced the inauguration of all-night, coast-to-coast service by its dealers during the summer months when night driving is at its peak, which should prove a positive contribution to night-driving safety. The Texaco Dealer announcement said;

"Fatigue and the carelessness induced by the monotony of long expanses of highways without a stopping-place should be sharply reduced, for the all-night rest-room service enables the driver to pause and relax. The facilities for freshening-up and the opportunity to stretch contribute greatly in enabling the driver to resume his trip alert and wide-awake, with every faculty sharpened for the maximum of safety on the road.

"The dangers of running out of gas or developing motor or tire trouble miles from any open service point and the resultant mental hazard which these possibilities create in the minds of drivers should also be greatly modified by the inauguration of Texaco all-night service."

Among the interesting facts which scientific investigators have revealed are that driver-asleep accidents start from a low point of 1% between 6 and 9 P.M., rise by midnight to from 4% to 6%, and reach a peak of 12% between 2 and 5 A. M. There follows a sharp decline to 2% between 6 and 8 A. M., a slight rise to nearly 3% at about 3 P. M. and a rapid rise beginning at 9 P. M. and reaching its peak at about 4 A. M.

Among the methods used to determine driver fatigue were tests for hand-eye coordination; color-naming tests; tests of the effect of a 300 mile drive on the driver's postural steadiness; tests for visual efficiency after a day's drive, since the eye does not function well when one is fatigued, and the vascular-skin reaction test. This last and most interesting test is based upon the fact that the blood vessels in the lower layer of a person's skin contract under irritation of the outer skin and the discontraction lasts longer than normally when one is fatigued. Thus the degree of fatigue may be ascertained by timing the period of contraction.

It is to be hoped that in the interest of night-driving safety, other service systems will also inaugurate all-night service.

WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM CONGRESSMAN
W. STERLING COLE

The appointment of Colonel Frank Knox, Republican nominee for Vice President in 1936, to the office of Secretary of the Navy and the appointment of Henry L. Stimson, former Secretary of War and Secretary of State under previous Republican administrations, has aroused a storm of protests from many groups. Most Democrats don't like the idea of going outside their party for cabinet officers, some Republicans disapprove of members of their party joining up with the New Deal and isolationists see in the appointment our further involvement in the European war. Both these men are of outstanding ability, both are realists and are devoted to the American system of government and life. These perilous times call for united action and no back-biting; politics in matters of national defense must be forgotten. These appointments convince me that President Roosevelt will decline a third term nomination. Probably Hull will take his place.

* * *

The Senate by a nearly unanimous vote supported the policy of giving all material military aid to the Allies without jeopardizing our own defense needs. In spite of this, some of them have recently spoken out against the transfer to the Allies of twenty small torpdo boats. It is a tempest in a teapot. These boats were ordered for experimental purposes, being copies of an English boat; they mount torpedo tubes of a size which we do not possess; their usefulness in other than harbor patrol duty is questionable; they have never been accepted by the Navy as an essential part of our fleet; they can be produced at the rate of one a week.

* * *

About three weeks ago your Representative introduced a measure authorizing the government to turn over to the American Red Cross surplus farm products in the amount of $25,000,000 for distribution to the refugees in Western Europe. The President has just sent a letter to the Senate asking for $50,000,000 for this purpose and it is now provided for in the relief bill which is soon to be adopted.

As a means of weaning away the foreign trade of South America from Europe to the United States, our State Department has called a conference for the formation of an "All-American Trade Corporation" to be established through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. This organization would operate with American funds and would purchase the surplus products of Latin America that would normally flow to Europe and market these products through a central sales agency. Much as we would like to help our South American neighbors and especially to obligate them to us at this time, it will be difficult to eliminate the certain objections that American agriculture will make as long as there continues to exist surpluses of American agriculture products.

* * *

Rebuttal to the argument that democracies cannot function efficiently and rapidly is seen in the recent action taken by the House Committee on Naval Affairs. With hearing of only one day duration, it approved the recommendation of the high officials of the Navy that our authorized fleet should be further increased and unanimously reported a measure which would add 1,200,000 tons or an increase of 70 percent over the amount now authorized. About six years operating at top speed, will be required to complete the program.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of the Advertiser,
Addison, New York.
Dear Sir:

As President of the Civic Club of Addison, interested in the welfare of our village, I wish to call attention to the condition of our parks. We have several parks, gifts of generous citizens of the past, Curtis Square, Wombough Park, Jones Square, that lovely little V-shaped park opposite the cemetery. Also I understand that the Village owns the land on the north side of Wombough street next the river, which, now covered with junk, could be a beautiful riverside park with benches etc. All these parks now, except Jones Square which is paved, are in an unkempt condition.

The first thing a stranger notices is our parks. Hardly a week goes by without some one from out of town remarking to me about the parks. A conversation like this took place with a man I know who was motoring thru.

"What kind of a mayor and village board have you here?"

"Very good," I answered, surprised at the question.

"Very good? And your parks looking like this. I always size up a village by the condition of its parks."

And that is true. Certainly this is a poor advertisement. I do the same when motoring, size up a town by its parks. It hurts the pride of all good citizens to have the village look like a rundown, backwoods community. And it is not a matter of much expense. Those on relief could be put to work mowing and putting the parks in shape.

In some places gifts of lands or buildings, if not kept up, revert to the heirs of the donors. Of course, there is no such danger here, but the principle is the same. If we cannot keep up these pieces of land, we should return them to the heirs.

Very truly yours,
Katharine Darrin
President of the Civic Club

Masonic Masters Meeting In Addison Wednesday

The Steuben County Masters and Wardens Association will hold a dinner dance in Hornell in October according to plans made at a meeting held in Addison Masonic Hall last Wednesday night. Joseph E. Boughton, Montour Lodge 168, Painted Post, presided as chairman of the meeting. This was the final meeting of the present season for the association and sessions will not be resumed until fall. Willkie Club Formed by GOP

Corning, July 3—District Attorney George A. King has organized Steuben County's first "Willkie for President" club and probably the first club of this kind organized in the state since the close of the Republican National Convention. Mr. King acted in his capacity as chairman of the Corning Republican City Committee.

Clarence H. Brisco, Corning city attorney, was elected president of the organization and plans to cooperate with cities and towns throughout the county in forming similar groups. Mr. Brisco and Mr. King will represent the National Willkie Committee in this work.

The Corning men, with County Chairman and Mrs. J. C. Latham, attended all sessions of the convention and returned home with unbounded enthusiasm for the party's candidate. In reference to the convention and its choice Mr. King said:

"I attended the convention that nominated Governor Landon four years ago and saw a well oiled machine in action but the Philadelphia convention was of a different type. Younger men dominated the gathering but there was no "boss".

"The delegates appeared determined to nominate a candidate who could win in November and I believe that Willkie is the man. His manner is so frank, his attitude so open and above board and his statements so free from double meanings that I predict he will wage a campaign the equal of which has never been seen in the United States.

"Certainly but few men have ever received the ovation given him after his brief address, at the convention close, when he promised to wage a battle to the finish. He spoke without notes or other preparation and threw his whole soul into his appeal for support. Mrs. Willkie, too, won every heart by her charm and modesty".

AHS Seniors Plan Careers

High schools are trying to work out studies which will most fit students for occupations or professions in which they hope to engage at the close of school. Occupational surveys were taken during the year under the direction of Principal Irving R. Gladstone, at which time he questioned each of the members of the senior class as to what they hoped to do as their life's work and their plans for the coming year.

The girls expressed their ideas as follows: June Allen plans to go to Meeker's for a secretarial course, Barbara Bailey plans to take up beauty culture, Frances Colburn plans to post graduate next year and then take up music in college or normal school to prepare to teach, Esther Docherty announced that she will stay at home during the coming year and then take up stenography, Leona Easton hopes to go to Meeker's and become a secretary. Mary Horey has not definitely decided whether she will become a teacher or a nurse, Vivian Jacobson would like to teach dramatics, Dorotha Jones has not announced plans for the coming year but hopes to become a history teacher.

Augusta Levi is going to post graduate for one year and then plans to become a nurse, Geraldine Lewis will post graduate next year and then take up dental hygiene work, Emily Mantle plans to go to Meeker's and take up bookkeeping or stenography, Doris Martin is going to post graduate and then engage in homemaking teaching, Bernice Myres hopes to become a nurse, Elaine Pawling will post graduate and then become a stenographer.

Geraldine Pepper was not committed as to her future at the time of the survey but planned to do post graduate work, Mary Perry was not definitely decided as to her future but planned to post graduate for one year of additional study, Pauline Phillips hopes to be a teacher after a year of post graduate work in AHS, Evelyn Reynolds also would like to be a teacher and after doing post graduate work hopes to enter college, Arlene Saxton hopes to work a year and then take courses qualifying her as a beautician, Blanche Shelanskey has the desire to become a Latin teacher. Ruth Sherwood plans to work a year before planning a definite future, Wanda Stewart will post graduate a year and then become a nurse, Helen Strauss will remain at home one year and then is planning to take up home economics work, Catherine Troy will remain at home a year and then would like to become a nurse, Gloria Voria is going to Albany or Geneseo State Teachers' College to become a teacher of English and Doris Watson expects to remain at home a year before entering a beauty culture school.

Boys' Choice

Many of the boys plan to do post graduate work to secure additional knowledge for future activities. Stanley Ackerson plans to post graduate for a year before entering engineering school, Laverne Baker will enter Simmons Mortuary School in Syracuse, Shannon Bovee will post graduate and then try to enter the State Police, Darrell Hopper hopes to become a professional musician, Ernest Matthews will engage in farming, Walter Perkins hopes to become a glass worker, Warren Perkins will post graduate and then engage in farming, John Reagan is desirous of becoming a salesman, George Reynolds would like to study medicine after his post graduate course, Rexford Robertson hopes to work a year before planning a life's career, William Root would like to become a railroad man in the footsteps of his father, Marvin Snyder plans farming as a career, Harold Stillman would like to join the Navy, James Strauss is also going to engage in farming, Robert Strauss has desires of being a diesel engineer, Paul Thomson is going to work in the Elkland tannery, Gerald Tompkins is going to enter the Elmira Ground Training School of Aviation, Beldon Watson is going to work in his father's sawmill and Charles Whitmore hopes to post graduate one year and then study to become an attorney.

"If you are Dairy Farmers' Union members you want a program you can support and you want to know what it is going to do for your receipts from milk. The program of the Dairy Farmers' Union is to get a large membership with the five mills per 100 pounds revenue. When the organization is perfected the object is not to increase the price of milk to the dairy farmers.

C. I. O. Control

The underlying object is to work with the Communist party to repea the Rogers-Allen Law and substitute a board of producer, consume and labor (as represented by the C. I. O.) This is all told in the Communist booklet 'Milk for Millions'.

Abolish Class Factions

"They believe they can fix the minimum price to producers and the maximum price to consumers. They would do away with classification. One-half the milk goes into fluid market. The other competes with products from outside the Bargaining Agency area of control. It is an international market.

"Now the system equalizes and causes the producer who shares the good market to also share the surplus. The D. F. U. wants a flat price, which would bring farmer into competition with the farmer.

"Communists tell us they can cut price of milk in New York and increase price to producer. They forget the cost of processing must be accounted for and the fact that the C. I. O. must be paid. New York cannot control the world market. I say farmers would receive a lesser return which is the Communist objective and Communism thrives on poverty.

"Archie Wright is not for personal gain. Accumulation of wealth does No. 2—FARMERS UNION .... not interest him. He is a fanatic, sincere in his hope that he will see the day when private ownership is done away with and he will be the leader in a Communistic society. His program is an illusion and myth.

Order Not Perfect

"The law encourages co-operatives and mergers of co-operatives. These in turn form the Bargain Agency. It is set up for farmers. The orders are not perfect. They have been in existence only a year. They do recognize classification and equalization. You pay two cents per hundred pounds to get the work of equalization done for you. Under the classification the first zone nearest the metropolitan market gets the fluid market with others in reserve, second zone is for cream and the third zone manufactured and by equalizing all three you get a better price.

Strike Ineffective

"Last year the Union struck and it looked for a time as though the law would be suspended. Under the Federal setup if two-thirds agree the law is in force under the state three-fourths are required. However, owing to the field work of the oldest and best organized co-operative in the milk field, the Dairymen's League, they kept milk moving into the metropolitan market and preserved the law. I'm not a member of the League either.

"The strike they called was not the reason for the increase in the price of milk. Petitions were filed long before the strike and as soon after the Supreme Court decisions as possible.

Producer vs. Dealer

"The problem in the milk field is not a division of interests of the Dairymen's League vs. the Independents, the Bargaining Agency vs. the Dairy Farmers' Union, the Sheffield vs. the Bordens, but it is a problem of the producer against the dealer. The producer is entitled to a living price.

"Criminals Control D. F. U."

"It is well for producers to bury the hatchet and then forget where they buried it. Don't let people with criminal records who have never milked a cow sell you a bill of goods to break down the only law built to help the farmers.

Co-operatives Can Improve

"You need leaders who have your confidence. I'll admit that maybe all co-operative leaders are not doing all they can for what farmers pay for and I believe the time will come when the State College of Agriculture, the Federal Department and state Departments of Agriculture will conduct schools to train co-operative leaders. The decision is up to you, invetstigate before joining any organization and determine if the leadership is what you want."

In answer to questions Mr. Pilger stated that changes can be made in the Bargaining Agency and Rogers-Allen law as the idea is sound and can be sold to the membership and the membership in turn demand state and federal action.

Dumont Speaks

Judge Smith then presented Charles Dumont of Malone, former Union executive board member. Mr. Dumont spoke in part as follows: "Farmers have agreed in principle as to what they want but have not agreed on the method of applying the principle. We know our production is not used by the New York or preferred market. At least 50 per cent of it goes into manufactured products.

"We are agreed on equalization, but the method of applying it is the stumbling block. Classification is necessary. Class 1, Class A or whatever you wish to call it, brings $2.45 per hundred, the fluid market is $1.64 and more for as low as $1 per hundred. You must decide if equalization is fair. The present law has supervision by the Department of Agriculture which sees that it operates fair to all people. Under the law you are getting from 50 to 80 cents better than over a long period of years.

Law for You

"The law was written for the western and northern New York producers. The order is your security. I opposed the Bargaining Agency at one time and organized the Dairy Farmers' Union to help the farmer. But when people began to study the record of Archie Wright they learned he had been an Industrial Worker of the World, IWW organizer and had been raided by Federal authorities. We began to find out things and that is the reason we who helped organize the D. F. U. are now far away from the policies of that organization. You can read his record in the public files.

D. F. U. is 5th Column

"Its organizers are former taxi drivers with convictions. It is a fifth column so prevalent today. Its organizers even join religious organizations. When the farmer is poor, that is a fertile field for the Communist party. These men are backed by the Communist party. Communists cannot do much when a man is making money, paying his bills and taxes.

"If the 61,000 producers in the area organze there is no amendment to the law they cannot have. It is up to you to decide. Right now if the independents in the Bargaining Agency organize to control the agency they have the power.

"It is up to you to decide whether the government-controlled laws or the Communists can do the most for you. In time to come you will have to decide and don't forget the D. F. U. is a dictatorship setup.

"You can investigate. Mail here is cheap. Write to Washington for the records".

Judge Smith spoke of his experiences in Russia for 17 days when no one smiled or laughed. He also mentioned that the laws for governing the milk are not perfect, but suggested abiding by the Bargaining Agency until something better is at hand.

Addison School Faces Depleting Population Figures Indicate

The analysis of school figures shows graduating classes getting smaller — Means less state aid and more local taxation.

The Rambler

Teachers in the Addison High School have prepared listings of students who passed in the various grades. An analysis of these figures reveals some interesting information for consideration, especially as to the future of Addison schools.

In the grades two to eight inclusive there are 97 girls and 100 boys. In the grade going into high school next fall are 23 girls and 18 boys, making a class that with reasonable luck should graduate 41 or less than were graduated in any of the past three years.

Now, apply this same thinking to the classes in school. In other words take any of the grades mentioned, and with reasonable abilities, the students should graduate from high school as a class. There will be casualties but there will also be additions.

Anyway going into the second grade are 12 girls and 19 boys making 31 potential high school graduates, in the third grade there are nine girls and 13 boys, making a potential graduating class in high school of 22 students, the fourth grade offers the best figure so far with 16 girls and 15 boys for 31 potential high school graduates, the fifth grade will have 19 girls and 11 boys, the sixth grade 16 girls and 10 boys and the seventh grade 16 girls and 19 boys for 35 students, more than any of the previous grades, yet considerable under the present class of 26 girls and 20 boys. There will be 9 girls and 13 boys in the eighth grade making 22 students going into high school next year.

Now, what does this all mean? In terms of population it shows a definite trend downward, in spite of Federal figures to the contrary in the April census.

But the greatest result of the analysis of these figures will be on the pocketbooks of the taxpayers of this community. It means considerable less state aid based on pupil attendance and it may mean fewer teachers to take care of a lessening student load.

And there is still that high school structure, inadequate after only 11 years as far as curricula is concerned and a financial burden on this school district and community. This building must be paid for and needed repairs made from time to time as depreciation sets in.

Of course a factor not mentioned in the above is the fact that district schools will be putting high school students into the building as they graduate them from eighth grades in their own schools, but this figure likewise is decreasing annually. Some rural students are leaving school, others are seeking other schools, so that even tuition from outside districts is expected to decrease on the basis of the average decrease in school population here.

The Rev. and Mrs. Nicholas Van Cossaboon returned to Addison Monday from Lockport, where the latter had been visiting her daughter. They brought Nancy Faust with them for a visit.

CAMP COUNSELLORS

Dick Gladstone and Matthew Whitmore, Jr., left Saturday for the Camp of the Woods at Speculator where they will be counsellors at the young people's camp.

Auto Trip Fatal For Mr. and Mrs. Gay Saturday

People of Addison and vicinity were shocked to learn of the death by motor accident of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin R. Gay, sister and brother-in-law of former Supervisor Walter M. Goff of this village. The double tragedy came as the result of a motor car accident Saturday as the Avoca couple were in the vicinity of Montour Falls.

Mr. Gay was considered a careful driver and it is believed that he had some sort of physical disability come upon him hurriedly as he was driving along for the car went several feet before being brought to a stop, in spite of the fact witnesses stated the car was going slowly at the time of the accident.

Mr. Gay died instantly and Mrs. Gay died Saturday night in the Montour Falls Hospital of shock, and internal injuries. She regained consciousness only a short time Saturday afternoon. A double funeral service was held from the home in Avoca Wednesday night and burial was in the family plot in Howard Cemetery.

Both were well known here and are especially remembered owing to their celebrating their golden wedding anniversary here two years ago.

Franklyn Ripley Heads Alumni at 50th Reunion

Over 180 Attend annual get-to-gether—Many speakers reminisce—Reception in library for older members —Fred C. Wilcox is toastmaster.

Franklyn Ripley, popular and talented member of the class of 1930, was chosen president of the Addison High School Alumni Association on the 10th anniversary of his graduation. The election took place last Wednesday night after the Alumni dinner.

The graduates chosen to serve with him during the coming year are: Vice president, Mrs. Bernard Wilson, class of 1928, composer of the school's Alma Mater; secretary, Mrs. Walter McDermott, class of 1929, re-elected, and treasurer Wendell Smith of the class of 1929. Miss Leanore Runyan of the class of 1921 was chairman of the nominating committee.

Honors for attending the most reunions went to Mrs. Samuel LaGrange, who has attended 44 consecutive reunions. The Alumni Association is only 50 years of age. This was the 65th annual commencement. Mrs. LaGrange was of the class of 1883 as was Mrs. Frank Crawford. Charles Brewster of the class of 1879 represented the oldest class present.

Fred C. Wilcox presided as toastmaster. Will B. Leete of the class of 1891 is the retiring president. He welcomed the members of the class of 1940 and the response for the class was given by Miss Ruth Sherwood of the class of '40. There were 180 at the banquet.

Fred Smith, former local commissioner of schools from 1900 to 1909 reviewed events of schools in his day as compared to the present. He left Addison to go to Nyack, where he remained 28 years, retiring two years ago. He observed that present activities for youngsters tended to take them from the home influence and atmosphere.

Mrs. Russell Osborne, nee Janet Crane, responded to a toast with "Reflections". Edward Sprague was in charge of group singing with Miss Janet Taylor as piano accompanist, both alumni members. John Orr gave two vocal selections with Miss Taylor as accompanist.

The committee on arrangements this year set apart a time for the greeting of friends in the school library, which was fitted into an informal reception room. Here old friends met and acquaintances were renewed. Supper was served by the Methodist ladies under the direction of Mrs. Walter Perkins.

The supper and meeting was followed by a dance in the high school gymnasium. Blue heaven and stars provided the theme for the decorations and the dancers voted the music excellent based on applcause and a filled floor at every dance.

The retiring officers of the association are: President, Will B. Leete; vice president, Miss Florence Edwards, '13; treasurer, Maurice E. Miller, '10.
